Honors Program Application Essays

Type, revise, and proofread your two essays carefully before you begin filling out the application, so that you can paste them in to the text boxes below each essay prompt. The Honors Council considers all aspects of the essay answers - what you say (content), but also how you say it (style) - and so your essays will be scored lower for vague language and grammatical errors.

* In the first essay (250–300 words), provide a brief biography that outlines your significant life events or experiences to give the Honors Council members a broader understanding of where you come from and what motivates you. Include community service or volunteering in which you have participated. What do you bring to the Honors Program? What would you hope that the Honors Program will do for you? [Paste your biography in the text box below, using 250–300 words. Do not include web links or photographs in the text box.]

* In the second essay (500–1000 words), describe your short- and long-term goals. Cover these two areas: First, what are your academic goals? That is, what do you plan to major in? What college degrees are you planning on earning? To what universities are you considering transferring? Next, what are your career or professional goals? [Paste your essay in the text box below, using 500–1000 words. Do not include web links or photographs in the text box.]
