ARIZONA WESTERN COLLEGE

MISSION

Arizona Western College offers educational, career, and lifelong learning opportunities through innovative partnerships which enhance the lives of people in Yuma and La Paz counties.

STATEMENT OF PURPOSES

To fulfill its mission, Arizona Western College provides education for transfer, employment, and individual enrichment to its diverse and widely dispersed population through a broad range of classes, programs, and services.

VISION IN PROGRESS: 2012

The Arizona Western College Vision 2012 is a future projection of how we see the college enhancing the lives of people in Yuma and La Paz counties. The vision is derived from the thoughts, ideas, and efforts of our creative, strong and professional educational staff and community partners. Arizona Western College in the year 2012 will serve 15,000 learners, representing 5,412 Full-time Student Equivalents, throughout 10,000 square miles with a forty-five million dollar operational budget supported by our two counties' growth and by state aid for enrollment increases. Learning will occur in state-of-the-art facilities in Yuma, San Luis, Parker, Wellton, Quartzsite, Somerton, and Salome.

CORE VALUES – THE PRESIDENT’S PERSPECTIVE

Institutional Values

- Arizona Western College will provide high quality lifelong learning opportunities for its people.
- Arizona Western College will actively seek diverse faculty, staff, and students interested in building a lifelong learning community college.
- Arizona Western College’s focus will be community centered and partnership oriented.
- Arizona Western College will be a facilitator of lifelong learning communities within our district.
- Arizona Western College will become a significant team member in economic development, cultural enhancement and societal improvement.

Learning-Centered Values

- Arizona Western College graduates will demonstrate competency in communication, critical thinking, quantitative analysis, and technology applications.
- Arizona Western College graduates will demonstrate expertise in their selected fields of learning.
- Arizona Western College graduates will be able to interact, communicate, and work effectively with partners, teams, and networks.
- Arizona Western College graduates will be able to participate actively in the political, ethical, and aesthetic aspects of community life.

- 2012: A Vision In Progress, Arizona Western College

HISTORY OF ARIZONA WESTERN COLLEGE

Arizona Western College (AWC) was the first community college established under the Arizona Community College Law of 1960, sponsored by the late Senator Harold Giss of Yuma. In 1961, an overwhelming majority of the electorate of Yuma County approved the establishment of a community college district. AWC then became the first institution of higher education established in Arizona since 1921. Soon enough the college acquired the use of a 640-acre site from the U.S. Bureau of Land Management ten miles east of the city of Yuma for the new college. Construction of its original thirteen buildings was accomplished during 1961-1963. In the Fall Semester of 1963, doors opened to the first class of students.

The College has grown substantially since it opened. The College district encompasses 10,000 square miles, the size of the original Yuma county with a total population of 207,270 (U.S. Census Bureau; 2006 American Community Survey, Census 2000). Yuma is the largest city in the county with a population of 96,120 (U.S. Census Bureau, 2006 American Community Survey). Due to such a large district, residence halls were built to better serve the students living beyond commuting distance. Additional buildings were built as the need arose and capital funds were available. Today thirty-three buildings are on the main campus with additional buildings owned or leased in numerous off-campus locations including the Construction Trades Building, East Yuma County Center, Entrepreneurial Center, La Paz Learning Center, La Paz Technology Center, San Luis Center, Somerton Center, Martin Luther King Learning Center and a facility in Quartzsite. Additional learning sites are leased from the local school, mobile home parks, and other community agencies.

In 1988, Arizona Western College and Northern Arizona University entered into a collaborative agreement to bring comprehensive postsecondary education to southwest Arizona. Students throughout the area have benefited from the opportunity to attain associate, baccalaureate, and master's degrees, and an educational doctorate at the AWC campus. This partnership provides seamless transfer options for AWC students so they can continue their education without relocating.

Arizona Western College and Northern Arizona University in Yuma share classrooms, library resources, and faculty members to provide a variety of services to students enrolled in both institutions. In 1996, Arizona Western College, the University of Arizona, and Northern Arizona University began a cooperative baccalaureate degree in Agricultural Systems Management.

AWC enrollment has grown from 930 students in the Fall Semester, 1963, to more than 11,000 unduplicated headcount a year. The College is open four days a week – Monday through Thursday. This schedule was the rule for summers as an energy conservation measure. A growing number of Friday and/or weekend classes are offered to meet changing student and community needs.

AWC is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and is a member of the American Association of Community Colleges.
